While MacDonald was revealing the while MacDonaid was revealing the fact that he saw Dawes and Gibson to-day, Ambassador Dawes was speaking at the American Legion dinner. The Prince of Wales, proposing a toast to the American Ambassador, said amid great laughter that Dawes had told him.

Tam such a stranger here that I had to ask the name of the man sitting next to me at dinner. He told me his name was Jellicoe (the famous British admiral)." The prince remarked that "we won't quite believe the gentleman, but I can assure you that Gen. Dawes, as he is known in his own country, is a regular feller."

Dawes Refers to Parley.

Ta his apeech Dawes referred in general terms, as did MacDonald at the Labor reception, to the naval negotiations, saying that the object of the American Legion is "to further the ideal of comradeship as opposed to force as the arbiter between nations."

"Let me say," he continued, "that the phrase expressed my chief instructions as received from the President of the United States as I left for London to take up my duties as American Ambassador and enter official relations with the two great English-speaking peoples. That phrase expresses the intent of the Kellogg treaty; it expresses the purpose in which your comrades of the American Legion may unite with you, it expresses the purpose which all former service men of all the armies of the World War, whether they served with us or against us, may unite with you. It expresses the purpose which of the World War, whether they served with us or against us, may unite with you. It expresses the purpose which should unite all peoples, of whatever nationality or country or creed or race, and one in which they must unite if the kingdom of God is to reign upon earth. 'DISCOVERED" BY HOOVER CONVERSES WITH WIFE

New York, June 25 .- A Washington dispatch to the New York World says: George Woodruff, Chicago banker and sweetheart, is sane Hoover intimate, toward the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, effective upon the retirement of Dr. Hubert Work in the fall.

This dark horse of the Hoover type, not versed in practical politics of the not versed in practical politics of the old school, but wealthy and liberal, has behind him a boom of such momentum that Republican leaders already are scrapping for the honor of having first suggested his name. The claim for Secretary of War James W. Good of starting the Woodruff boom was denied to-day at the White House by Chairman Work, who, while waiting to see the President on the subject, claimed the credit himself.

Claims for credit, however, are only band wagon leaps, as the move started high President Hoover himself. Wood-ruff was undercover man for Hoover. in the West during the presidential campaign last year. He holds no politi-cal nor party office, but was said to have been in daily telephone conversa-tions with the Republican candidate during the campaign and to have had the last word on Western campaign dethe last word on Western campaign decisions. Good was Western campaign director, with headquarters in Chicago.

Two or three national committeemen including Ralph Williams, of Oregon, are anxious for the place. Secretary Good fought for the post last year before Dr. Work won out. Postmaster General Walter Brown, boss of Toledo, Ohio, who is building up a personal political power by greater control of the vast amount of postmastership patronage in his department, would not be averse to taking the helm. The Woodruff boom, however, is the heralding of a new order.

Rome, June 25 (U.P.). — The first Italian Ambassador to the new papal state, Vatican City, was installed to-night. Count de Vecchi presented his credentials formally to Pope Pius XI at a colorful ceremony.

The new ambassador, in an address to the Pope, said he felt the highest honor "in being the first Ambassador Lynchburg banker; Robert H. Talley, of Italy, unified in her Catholic faith former United States district attorney and territorial compactness and relies."

As a result of these happenings, the Republican strategists are looking forward to the ultimate acquisition of the wandering Democrats, rather than victory for the coalition this fall. The action of the Cannonites takes them definitely out of the Democratic party, definitely out of the Democratic party, it is pointed out, and not only that, but the Republicans say confidently that they believe those Cannonites are 95 per cent Republican, anyway. However the Republicans look at it, they figure they can not lose, providing they take every precaution against the Cannonites absorbing them. If the coalition should win, well and good. If it does not, it will be the end of the Cannonite movement and the follow-

Meanwhile President Hoover exercised his authority under the flexible tariff provisions and proclaimed a rate of 3.7 cents a pound on linseed or flax-seed oil, as against the present 3.3 cents duty. This would compensate for the recently proclaimed increase from 40 to 56 cents a busnel in the duty on flaxseed. The House bill would increase the flaxseed oil rate to 4.16 cents and that on flaxseed to 63 cents. Western farm representatives are seeking from 70 to 84 cents on flaxseed.

WHOLLY UNOFFICIAL.

The American financial wizards of international fame who served on the Paris reparations commission and brought forth the Young plat descended upon Washington yesterday by invitation. Mr. Young himself, together with Messrs. Morgan, Lamont and Perkins, lunched with President Hoover at the White House, consumed Secretary of State Stimson's day in conferences and conferred with Ogden Mills, acting Secretary of the Treasury. But their activity was wholly unofficial.

To those who watched their every move and wondered why the public business was so completely subordinated to their activities, the cryptic explanation "wholly unofficial" came as the only bulletin of the day's developments. And even this crumb of explanation might have been denied but for the Secretary of State, who assumed responsibility for the bulletin. The international financiers themselves were silent as the Bank of England.

It was said in advance of their coming that sident Hoover might desire to learn from their lips, in a wholly unofficial way, what the reparations report really meant. Mr. Stimson, It was intimated, might wish to learn, wholly unofficially, why the allied nations patterned the report in keeping with the fond desires of Europe to entice Uncle Sam into a suitable debt-cancellation program. Or the Treasury Department might wish to learn, in a wholly unofficial way, how the proposed international bank scheme might profitably absorb the hard-earned money of American investors and use it to make the wheels of world finance Berhaps the financiers regret that they did not come sooner, before President Hoover made his statement that the United States would not sign the Young report and submit it to Congress for approval. There was nothing wholly unofficial about this Hoover statement and there's the rub. But there are other means of getting the United States interested hesides signing the Young report.

There is the projected international bank. for example, which will reach out and become a spongelike absorber of investors' funds, Wholly unofficially, it may be surmised that the promoters of this twentleth-century piece of international finance have not overlooked the fact that American funds will provide the sums to be absorbed. By proceeding slowly and cautiously and floating small amounts of German securities at the start, the appetite of American investors may be whetted. But this requires whole-hearted support by the Government. Otherwise it may be difficult to absorb sufficient American money to put this gigantic banking proposition into operation.

The fact that American investors would gradually underwrite Germany's reparations debts to the allies and place Uncle Sam in the position of holding the bag if payments should ston would not interfere with the international banking project. Besides, if America underwrites the whole debt there will be the "moral force" of America behind the bank and the whole new structure of world finance about to be erected.

The arrangement for graciously permitting America to scale down German reparations payable to the United States for army costs and claims could scarcely have brought the Ananciers to Washington in their wholly unofficial capacity. Officials have already explained that the amount involved is triffing.

But everything else in the reparations experts' report, all the complicated debt and reparation juggling, all the luscious financial plums later to be seized upon in pooling and expanding twentieth-century international Anance, perhaps to the benefit of all nationsall that is wholly unofficial.

NO JOB FOR AMATEURS.

Congress is in recess, but not all of its members are tramping the banks of shaded streams or basking in the sun of seaside resorts. A few are busy digging up material to enliven the second half of the extra session and the regular session opening in December. Among these latter are a number of Democrats of both the Senate and House who are preparing for an investigation of bank mergers. They are alarmed at the enormity of some financial institutions that recent consolidations have brought into being. Fearing that the country will be controlled by a few wealthy ple, Senator Connally, of Texas, announces he will ask the Senate to inquire into the recent mergers in New York and other cities. Senator Walsh, of Montana, also sees danger in the outlook, and Senator Glass, of Virginia, proposes a study to see if corrective legislation is necessary. Financial experts agree with the Demo-He congressmen that some changes in the Pederal banking laws are necessary. At a bankers' convention, John W. Pole, come when a new banking policy should be adopted to meet present-day methods of financing. He believes the basic structure of the banking system should again be studied in view of the development of group banking and the increasing number of mergers under trust company charters. No one in the country is so well qualified to make that study as the comptroller of the currency.

Mr. Pole has announced that he will call a group of outstanding bankers and students of finance into consultation at an early date and ask their assistance in formulating a plan which will offer State banks and trust companies opportunity to gain a wider field of banking operations under national charters. It is indicated that the plan agreed upon will be recommended to Congress.

If the Federal banking laws are in need of amendment, the revision should only be made on the advice of financial experts. The national bank act makes it the duty of the comptroller of the currency to recommend any changes necessary for the security of creditors or improvement of the system. It would be unfortunate if the Senate should interfere before Mr. Pole makes his report. Tinkering with the Federal banking laws without expert guidance is full of dangerous possibilities.

CONGRESSIONAL IMMUNITY.

It is now Senator Bingham's turn to tinker with the Constitution. To the long list of proposed amendments he would add a provision to take the immunity for libel from members of Congress. The wise provision of the Constitution makers that "for any speech or debate in either house, they (senators and representatives) shall not be questioned in any other place" would be swept away, and in its place would be a new privilege entitling lobbyists to embarrass congressmen with libel

In support of his measure, Senator Bingham points out that it is possible for congressmen to attack in the open any race of people, their leaders or representatives, without being called to account. He believes that the provision in the Constitution was not designed to give such privilege. So he would make members of Congress strictly answerable to every Tom, Dick or Harry for their utterances on the floor of either house. However, he would allow them to slander the President, Cabinet officers and other Government officials all they pleased. Criticism of the other branches of the Government he considers one of the important functions of Congress.

It would be extremely difficult to draw a line between those who could be defamed and those who could not. When a man was being considered for an appointive position. senators would have to guard their tongues. But as soon as he received the appointment, they could malign him as much as they liked. Under the circumstances the nominee who failed of appointment might consider himself the more fortunate.

The courts have consistently upheld the immunity of congressmen from libel suits. The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia recently sustained a motion for dismissal of a libel suit against Senator Couzens based on remarks he made in the Senate. The court found that the constitutional provision was made in the public interest, not in the interest of senators, and that it was designed to give members of Congress fearlessness in all they raid in speeches on the floor. Any restriction of the privilege would seriously hamper Congress in its work and would open the way for endless intimidation of its members. It is unfortunate that the people elect to Congress some men who are unprincipled enough to maliciously malign any person or organization under the cloak of their immunity. Some practical method of eliminating this kind of "character assassination" would meet with general approval. Why can't the rules of the Senate and House be revised so that such attacks will not be tolerated? It would be well to investigate this and other possibilities to the fullest extent before acting on an amendment that would subject the country to far more mischief than it would eliminate. It is a pretty ideal that nothing but truth should be spoken on the floors of Congress, but to attain that ideal by legislation is hopeless. Congressmen can not conduct themselves as if they were giving evidence before a court. In the heat of debate they give what information they have. If every member had to mince his words or remain silent because he did not have ready proof for what he wished to say, Congress would become a body of nincompoops. Congressmen would spend their time answering libel suits instigated by their political enemies rather than attending to the Nation's business. Congressional debates must continue to be unquestioned outside of the Senate and House chambers. Sensible rules and election of high class citizens to Congress should give the public protection.

PROHIBITION EDUCATION.

The project of attempting to popularize prohibition through an educational campaign in the public schools of the Nation, upon which the Prohibition Bureau plans to embark, bids fair to stir a controversy of considerable bitterness. Thus far the Government has contented itself merely with trying to enforce the prohibition laws, but now there has been worked out a scheme with which to acquaint large number of the Nation's 30,000,000 school children with the blessings and benefits of prohibition in the hope that their influence will cause a swing of sentiment to support of the eighteenth amendment. An appropriation is in hand for the work and, the latter part of the week, Miss Anna Sutter. of the bureau, will appear before the National Education Association, in convention in Atlanta, to bid for its support and to describe the campaign that has been worked out. In the meantime, a sharp division of opinion has arisen in regard to the propriety of the project.

Unquestionably, a precedent will have been set if the public schools of the Nation undertake to create a sentiment favorable to prohibition. Proponents of the scheme point out that for years before the adoption, of the eighteenth amendment the evils of alcohol were taught in the schools and they assert that the present proposal constitutes only a carrying forward of the earlier teachings. But aptroller of the currency, said the time has | prohibition, since the adoption of the constitu- | based their highway-construction programs.

tional amendment, has changed its status. Today, it is not only a moral subject, but it is political, as well, and it is highly controversial. It would be well if it were recognized at the start that while it may have been perfectly proper at one time to spread temperance propaganda through the schools, it might not be proper, with a changed set of conditions, to inject a highly controversial political subject and the mere fact that once the schools were used for antialcoholic crusades does not mean that they should be now.

The thousands who believe in the prohibition laws will approve the scheme. The thousands who do not favor prohibition will condemn it. In dry areas, school authorities will not hesitate to adopt the Government's program but in wet areas its adoption will not be considered. In localities where there already exists a well-defined sentiment for prohibition, missionary work among school children is not needed and in localities where the sentiment is decidedly wet, teachers, even though they be personally dry, would not dare fly in the face of public opinion. It is in the localities where sentiment is more or less evenly divided that the bitter fight over the proposal

In the final analysis, however, the public schools of the Nation are controlled by the taxpayers, and the material they teach does not violate popular sentiment. It seems hardly likely that the Government will be able to get its prohibition courses generally adopted and it may be found that the scheme will die before it gets fairly under way.

Dr. James M. Doran says that the total cost of enforcing the prohibition law in nine years comes to $141.178,485, but think of all the fun the prohibition agents have had.

Henry Ford joins a group of prominent personages in a proposal to dedicate a day to "the Hoover program of law enforcement." Just one day?

The Federation of Citizens Associations wants to know why the price of milk has not been reduced with the coming of hot weather. But a cow has as hard a time working in hot as in cold weather.

TOLL BRIDGES

By EDMUND STIRLING, In the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Greed at the river crossings" is the term used by Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, in his discussion of an increasingly serious, problem that is confronting the motor interests of the Nation. This is the great number of toll bridges, the larger proportion of which are privately owned and operated, already linked to the great highway system of the country and the enormous number under construction by Federal and State authorization.

The anomaly of the situation created by these toll bridges lies in the inconsistency of policy that stands for free highways and at the same time permits the construction of tollgates to exact fees from the users of these free roads. The United States Government and the several States have expended very large sums of money for the eradication of the old turnpikes, with tollgates every few miles, and the State of Pennsylvania is today committed to the purchase and throwing open to the public of old toll bridges constructed in the days of the "plank roads," when toll charges were defended on the ground that those who used the roads did not pay for the labor that made and maintained them.

This defense of the toll system no longer is applicable, for the users of the highways today pay between $825,000,000 and $900,-000,000 annually in gasoline taxation and for motor licenses. An additional tax for the use of those parts of the highway system which cross the rivers of the country the motorists justly regard not only as a backward step but as an unnecessary barrier to traffic and

It must not be inferred that the opponents of the toll-bridge system do not recognize that there are conditions where they may be necessary, either because of the initial cost or for other sound reasons. They do contend, however, that public policy demands that the bridges should be built with public funds, or if by private interests, they should be soundly financed and put under strict regu-

It is argued, with justice, that the public should not be compelled indefinitely to pay tribute to private interests. The Federal Public Roads Bureau heartily supports this view and, under the authority of Congress, offers to pay half the cost of necessary bridges as an encouragement to the individual States to issue bonds for the remaining half and to free the bridges when the tolls are sufficient to retire the bonds. This policy, of course, is that adopted by the Delaware River Bridge Commission, and its wisdom is demonstrated by the prospect of an amortization of the entire construction debt at a much earlier date than the original estimates of the engineers. Federal bridge regulation and control have been chiefly concerned in the past with questions concerning the maintenance of uninterrupted navigation, but there is every prospect that Congress will be asked to adopt standard form of future authorization which will contain provisions safeguarding the public interest in the traffic conditions the bridges will serve, the cost limitations and the means for recapture of privately built bridges.

Of course, Federal action in such matters would have to be supplemented by State legislation. Several bills bearing on this matter are now pending and will be vigorously pushed by their authors and by the highway and mo-

It is an indisputable fact that the heaviest users of the roads have already paid their share into the public coffers for the construction and maintenance of highways which as through arteries of traffic, should proceed uninterruptedly across rivers in the direct line of that traffic's flow.

It is equally true that there should be no place on the publicly owned highways for privately owned bridges. Bridges are as much part of the highway as are the materials of which the roads are built, and the exaction of tolls is in contradiction to the whole principle upon which the Nation and the States have Senator Fletcher Explains Position of Florida Senators on the Debenture; Savs Position Sound and Correct Throughout.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Some newspaper writers, including "the 97th Senator, seek to sunderstand that the Florida senators understand that the Florida senators Senator," seek to give the public to were influenced by the hope of of ing the favor of the adminis oppose the debenture plan in the farm relief measure. They know perfectly well both Florida senators voted for the debenture plan when the question was before the Senate.

The House disagreed to the Senate mendments and the bill went to conference. The House conferees refused bsolutely to even consider the debenture feature. It was given out that the President would veto the bill if that feature was embodied in it, and it was plain that there would be no legislation unless the Senate receded.

The Florida senators decided to vote in favor of the conference report, in order to get some legislation, the best they could. That was the situation when the Florida Legislature unanimously condemned the debenture plan and urged the senators to favor the report of the conferees. We voted as we had previously determined. Our votes did not affect the result. The Senate voted by a small majority to disagree to the conference report. Priends of the debenture plan favored that course generally. If we had so voted we would have simply increased the majority by two votes. We were confident the House would not yield and, accordingly, when the direct vote on the question was taken, by a vote of nearly 2 to 1, they rejected the debenture plan. When that action was certifled to the Senate it concurred by a very large majority-74 to 8.

The Florida senators voted on Tuesday precisely as they did on Friday, although many who voted against the conference report on Tuesday voted for it on Friday. There was no suggestion of any trade or ulterior purpose or questionable motive. The events showed our position sound and correct all the way through Local Parks Are Not What They Used to Be; an Expert Landscape Architect Should Be Given Their Supervision.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: The local parks are not what they used to be. At times they are unkempt. The flowers leave much to be desired in kind and arrangement and in spots the beds are covered with grass. One can not but feel that false and petty economy has been applied at the expense of attractive beauty. There is no progress. Lafayette Square used to be exceedingly beautiful, but today it is suggestion intrudes itself that the park area for automobiles, just as the Sr sonian grounds have been made one vast garage for automobiles of employer grounds in front of the agriculture cars parked where green grass once grew. The Treasury folk are demanding prised any day to hear that the favor had been granted. Take Franklin Square. This was once an exquisite park, Members of Congress liked to refer to it with pride. Its walks are in a state of disrepair. Ita beauty used to center in its large founfountain was delightful to hear as well as to see, but it has not been playing steadily for several years. The basin looks like an ugly crater. The grass on the sides is almost worn off. Thirteenth street to the east of the park was widened last year. Instead of providing a sidewalk ample for this square, one was built barely wide enough for two people to pass, apparently all this being done to save the comfort station which should have been moved anyway. Lack of planning and foresight was manifested here. The sidewalks will have to be widened and this must come soon. Money and effort have been wasted. The authorities seem to be afraid of using water. If I mistake not, last year Charles Moore, chairman of the paperhanger, hit by a falling girder." ## Envoy of Cuba To Take Fling At Chautauqua

Senor Ferrara Is Going Later to Havana and Then to Europe.

By JEAN ELIOT.

EFORE sailing for Havana on B July 4, the Cuban Ambassador. Senor de Ferrara, is planning to make an old-fashioned barnstorming tour under auspices of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, which seems to be specializing in presenting diplomats to its audiences this year. It will be remembered that Dr. Wu, the Minister of China, made a similar brief tour for the Chautauqua Association a few weeks ago.

Senor Ferrara, who is leaving town today, will deliver addresses in Sunbury, Pa., Lockhaven, Pa., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Bath, N. Y. On Monday he will return to Washington for a day or two, afterward going to New York, where Senora de Ferrara is to await his arrival. She will go to New York today to remain until they set sail for Cuba.

They are planning a three-week sojourn at their home in Havana and will come again to Washington before going later in the summer to Europe. They are timing their trip abroad in order to be in Geneva when the assembly of the League of Nations meets in September, for Senor Ferrara is Cuba's representative in the league.

in its struggle for freedom from Spanish domination and he may be said to have grown up with his adopted land. Before coming to Washington, he played an influential role in Cuban politics. In his youth he had an international reputation as a duelist.

Senora de Ferrara is an unusually charming woman and she and her husband both have a flair for entertainment, which has made the embassy one of the most popular of diplomatic establishments in their hospitable regime. It was there that President Machado of Cuba stayed when he Machado of Cuba stayed when he came a visiting to Washington several years ago; and Senor and Senora de Ferrara had important parts in the lavish entertainment which marked President Coolidge's visit to Havana to seturn that ceremonious call.

COUNTRYMEN STILL HOPE

Madrid, June 25 (A.P.).—Ships and airplanes of four nations united today in the search for Maj. Ramon Franco, Spanish ace who, with three companions, left Cartagena on Friday for the Azores on the first leg of a round trip flight to New York.

Spain, Italy, England and Portugal mobilized searching parties to comb the area between the Portuguese coast and the Azores by sea and air for the missing filers.

The Searnish government motivation.

In any industry where the work is heavy, lame back is about the most frequent dispreder for which compensation is sought. To get at the cause of frequently recurring lame back Drs. Bohart, Cushway and Maier have been taking X-ray pictures of backbones by the thousands in the aggregate. They find "arthritis, lipping and spur formations a sure indication that the individual will work but a short time until some sudden strain of a break will produce a lumbago."

There is nothing to do except to meet symptoms as they arise. Protect the processes.

Dr Dout, of the Henry Ford Hospital, finds that these cases of recurring lame back and lumbago are frequently due to a deposit of lime in the ligaments. near the spinal column. Drs. Bohart, Cushway and Maier have confirmed Dr. Dout's findings. So much for some of the conditions which are almost certain to cause repeated attacks of lumbago. On the other hand, Dr. Bohart and his associates do not think most of the bony defects of the column cause lumbago. Very often the strong bony spines of the lumbar vertebrae rub against the pelvic bones. Sometimes they grow to these bones. This general abnormality is called sacralization of the lumbar not much exposed to the contagion.

People have at various times tried stunts of that sort. In 1912 a man dropped a bottle in the Ohio River from a point near Louisville. It drifted to the Mississippi and then out into the Gulf of Mexico. Pive years later it was picked up on the coast of California!

Since ocean currents would not be likely to carry a bottle around South America, it is believed that the Louisville bottle was carried across the South Atlantic, around the Cape of Good Hope, and then across the Indian and Pacific oceans. The person who found it noticed the name and address inside

A graduate of the Tiflis conservatory and a full-fiedged musician, Horlick went to Moscow and played in sym-phony orchestras. He was a violinist. Then came the war. Harry entered the Russian army and for more than two years did not touch his violin. The imperial standard fell in Russia and the red flag of the revolution waved in its place. Horlick was captured by the Bolsheviki. Instead of Siberia, the revolutionists sent him into a symphony orchestra and later he was assigned to play in an orchestra for the communized opera. Horlick tired of commu-nistic government and decided to es-cape. He did, traveling by night unti-the reached Tiflis, where friends hid him and from there he went to Constanti-

In Constantinople were persons from all parts of war-scarred Europe. Many of them were musicians and in the cafes Horlick started his collection of melodies that since have become fam-ous through his broadcasts. He left Constantinople to join his parents who had moved to America before the outbreak of the European war. Later he returned to Europe and wandered about France and Italy lisening for melodies which he carefully noted. Often he spent days with bands of real gypsies, playing for them and in turn learning their distinctive folk

HE problem of the winter evening THE problem of the winter evening wrap is solved by simply putting two and two together—rich fabric, opulent fur plus chic line and brilliant color. But the problem of the summer evening wrap is more varied, and may be solved in numerous ways—by the tiered cape, the capelike scarf, the short and long coat, even the draped square—that survival of a former season. # RAILS AND UTILITIES · LEAD UPWARD MOVE Buying Quickly Supplants Brief Selling Flurry in Stock Market. CALL MONEY 10 PER CENT which carried the rail and public utility averages to new high levels for the year.

New York, June 25 (A.P.) .- Call money held firm at 10 per cent today. but the stock market, apparently paying little attention to the midyear credit stringency, indulged in an impressive demonstration of strength

A brief flurry of selling swept over the market during the morning, carrying many issues down 1 to 5 points but buying support was quickly supplied. Most of the losses were recovered. twenty or more industrial and railroad leaders attained new high prices and a few specialties were whirled up 5 to 25

Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales falling just below 3,000,000 shares. Professional operators supplied the bulk of the day's activity, small traders and investors showing little inclination to reenter the market until the midyear credit storm had passed.

Wheat Drops Cent a Bushel.

Meanwhile, wheat declined about a cent a bushel on reports of beneficial rains in Canada, corn closed unchanged to 1% cents a bushel higher on bearish crop forecasts and cotton advanced about $1 a bale on forecasts of showers in the belt.

Banks called between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 in loans, on top of the $80.400,000 called yesterday, and for a time the official rate threatened to go highser, but sufficient new funds came into the market to take care of the demand. The time money market was dull, with

The time money market was dull, with rates firm but unchanged.

Reports that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was on his way to this country aroused widespread interest in Wall street, where it was figured that his mission was to devise some means to check the former. was figured that his mission was to devise some means to check the flow of gold from London to New York. In addition to the secent heavy withdrawals of the yellow metal for shipment to this country, London also is reported to have lost gold to Germany today. With the crop-harvesting season close at hand, Wall street is counting on a more lenient Federal Reserve policy.

Day's Principal Demand.

One of the encouraging features of today's market from an investor's standpoint was the fact that the principal demand for stocks centered largely in the high-grade industrial and railroad issues. American Can, General Electric, Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers, North American Co., Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide, New York Central, Atchison, Pennsylvania and Norfolk & Western all moved into new high ground for the year, while U. S. Steel common was marked up more than 5 points in a flurry of buying at the close.

In accordance with general expectations, directors of the Anaconda Copper Co. voted to continue the $7 annual dividend on the enlarged capitalization. Libby Owens Sheet Glass was spilt up 4 for 1 and the dividend doubled. Some recession was reported in steel mill output, but this was attributed to the hot weather rather than to any appreciable falling off in orders.

A series of excellent May earnings statements provided the background for the advance in the railroad shares. Day's Principal Demand.

statements provided the background for the advance in the railroad shares. Oils were one of the few important groups which failed to present any outgroups which failed to present any out-stending points of strength, due large-ly to reports of another sharp increase in crude production last week.

Better Statements Expected.

Wall street expects, however, that excellent second quarter statements will be forthcoming from some of the leading producing and refining companies next month.

Adams Express, which advanced 40 points last week and 35 yesterday, 26 soared 40 points today, but lost 15 points of its gain. Auburn Auto continued its sensational climb by jumping 114 points to another new high at 335%, which contrasts with the year's low of 221. Allis Chalmers 12 showed a net gain of 13 points and Allied-Chemical 11. General Electric advanced 11 points and lost 2.

Foreign exchange trading was quiet, with price changes nominal. Sterling continued to hover around the "gold import" point.

FOREIGN LIST IS QUIET

New York, June 25 (A.P.).-An afternoon raily in convertibles, some of which were accumulated liberally on the rise in stock prices, saved the bond market from a wholly uninteresting session today. Prices for the bond market from a wholly uninteresting session today. Prices for the atandard issues eased again and the close found the averages only 22 above the low established late in May.

After a dull forenoon, the share privilege bonds came into prominence around middey and International Telephone 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5½s. New Haven 6s and Atchison 4½s were bid up to peak prices. The first named issue closed at 138¼. a new high, for a net advance of 3¾, while the Missouri Pacifics, after selling up to 113½ closed a point below that figure for a new high. The Atchison bonds got to 12½ best price of the year, and closed at 122, equaling its previous to pwith a net gain of 1½ points in a large turnover. The New Haven issue finished the day at the new peak of 127¾, up 1½.

American Telephone convertible 4½s, traded to the extent of about $2,700,000, principal amount, moved within a range of nearly 3 points and at the closing quotation of 133½ was 1½ above Monday's final. American 1. G. Chemical 5½s were more active than usual and moved up ½ to 102½.

First grade rails made a better showing than the secondaries, but interest in both groups was only moderate. Atchison General 4s. Great Northern 7s. Nickel Plate 5½s. Northern Pacific general 4s and St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s were higher, while Erie 5s and 4s. Northern Pacific 6s and Reading general 4½s worked lower.

Two New York City traction issues Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s and Encaday-Seventh Avenue 5s, were supported for net gains of 1½ and utilities, generally firm, fell behind the rails in volume of trading. Some of the best gains appeared for Armour Real Estate 4½s. American Writing Fape 6s, Chile Copper 5s, and United States Government issues advanced from a small fraction to half a point and the list was well supported.

Foreign bonds showed few extensive

United States Government issues advanced from a small fraction to hair a point and the list was well supported. Foreign bonds showed few extensive price changes, Buenos Aires 6s, 1960. Were features, improving 1½ to 3 points, while French Republic 7s climbed ½ to 113½, or slightly more than a point under the year's high. LOCAL STOCK EXCHANGE.

PECIALISTS IN POWER AND LIGHT SECURATIES

LIGHT HERALDED THE DAWN OF COMMERCE

WO HUNDRED years before Christ, the island state of Rhodes stood at the crossways of commerce. Argosies brought the spices of the East, the gold of Africa, the tin of far-off England and traded in her harbor. Yet something was needed.

Demand created supply. A colossal statue of the Sun God, over 100 feet high and holding in its hand a flaming torch, was erected beside the harber. New ships might sail by night as well as day. Light had answered the call of commerce.

It was 2,000 years before Edison in his little week they in undreamed-of America brought to industry the incandescent electric light, so that giant searchlight might guide the mighty air-borne commerce of

One can only regard the future of the power and light industry on the basis of its past. We use today four times as much electrical energy as in 1915. From 1908 to 1928 the number of customers of central power stations grew from 1,950,000 to 22,000,000, while revenue from sale of electricity increased from $175,000,000 to $1,770,000,000.

The record of the industry suggests the wisdom of investing in well-chosen power and light securities.

Retired Champion Impressed With German's Form in Final Workout; Ability to "Take" Spaniard's Punches Lone Question.

Almost the Naked Truth

(Retired undefeated lightweight champion).

AKEWOOD, N. J., June 25 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—I have just finished watching Max Schmeling go through his final workout for his battle with Paulino Uzcudun, to be held in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night, and there can be no question but that he is in great condition. After observing him and be no question but that he is in great condition. After observing him and weighing everything he has in his favor, and what he has against him, I have no hesitation in picking him to defeat the Spaniard in their fight. Also, I believe the contest will go the limit.

Schmeling has come along to the front ranks among the heavyweights with rapid strides. Aside from Johnny Risko, there isn't any real good man that he has beaten, but nevertheless he has shown what is necessary to make a hesitation in picking him to defeat the Spaniard in their fight. Also, I believe the contest will go the limit.

Schmeling has come along to the irront ranks among the heavyweights with rapid strides. Aside from Johnny. Risko, there isn't any real good man that he has beaten, but nevertheless he as shown what is necessary to make a champion, and that is "speed." Max's can punch, he can box, he knows how to avoid punishment and he has a keen eye.

Max's Ability to "Take It"

The one big thing, and an important one, which he has not yet proven, is his all ability to take it. This is especially necessary in a heavyweight, I am not as anying, that Max does not possess courage, but the fans want to see him in a hard fight where he will have to have it a stout heart to come through and will not proclaim him as a top-notcher. This battle, and until they do they will not proclaim him as a top-notcher. This battle with Paulino, the Basque, will put him to the test.

Schmeling boxed four rounds, two with Marty Gallagher and two with Germany Heller. The boxing was done in a stuffy little gymnasium because it was raining when he did his workout, and it was stifling hot in there. Four rounds were equal to six. In the morning he had run three miles around the The thing that impressed me most was the rhythmic movement of Schmeling as he circled gracefully about the ring and the ease with which he shot his punches. This alone showed that Score in Trials.

Hoyt, Pennock Face Nats Today

Yanks Have Lost 5 of 8 Games Against Johnson's Club.

Miami Offers $8,000 to Nats to Train There in 1930.

By FRANK H. YOUNG. Having won both ends of the last two double-headers in which they have participated, one against the Yankees, the Nationals are hope of making it three in a row is afternoon w'en they again to be this afternoon wen they again tackle
"Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Company" in a bargain-day bil. These two games one price were arra ged because of heavy rains yesterday just before game Miller Huggins had Waite Hoy lined up to pitch in yesterday's game and tintimated last night that he will perform in the openar of this afternoon's twin bill. He will find Fred Marberry on the hill opposing him, while Her-bert Pennock, the veteran southpaw bert Pennock, the veteran southpaw in who has been anything but consistent this season, is expected to do the flinging in the nightcap. Lloyd Brown likely will oppose him, making it a left-handed contest all around, although Manager Walter Johnson last night declared that he may decide to shift to Adolph Liska, the subway hurler

Oddly enough, the Nationals do not fear the world's champions as they do some of the other teams lower in the standing, and they are confident that they will cop both go es today, probably because they har managed to win five of the eight lready played. This is a big order, however. If the Nats should manage to do so, it will stretch their present winning streak to say in their present winning streak to six in a row, for they have come out on the long end of the score in their last four

Griffith Considering Offer To Train at Miami.

President Clark Griffith declares that there is no need for fans to get excited over the possibility of the Nationals doing their training at Miami next spring. The fact that this city had made a bid was announced some time ago and he declares that the visit to the Georgia Avenue Stadium of a Miami newspaper man yesterday was due merely to the fact that the scribe was passing through Washington en route North and was interested in learning whether the Nats had made a definite decision on the proposition. President Clark Griffith declares that the Nats had made a definite decision on the proposition.

"Miami's offer was a guarantee of $8,000, not $7,500 as was published, and haif of proceeds of games in excess of this amount," said Griffith, "it also being stipulated that we must play at least eight games there. I dropped the matter from my mind when it looked as though we would purchase the Atlanta Southern League Club, but now that this deal has failen through, I will consider it, along with any others which I may receive."

raxton Recalled as Result Of Shortage of Hurlers, was reported in New York some ago that Manager John McGraw anned, including a ten-day jaunt rough Mexico. Griffith declares that CGraw has not been heard from re-rding this matter.

That Griffith is seriously considering coepting the Miami proposition, hower, is indicated by the fact that he trying to get the American League amend its rule which prohibits its lubs from playing each other in exhibition games. "When this rule was sased the idea was to prevent long clon games. "When this rule was seed, the idea was to prevent long ries in which one club might so badly at another as to affect the interest the series between the two during e regular season." he said.

nearest big league neighbors, and, con-sequently have urged the league to amend its rule so that series of not exceeding three games with other American League clubs could be play-ed during the spring training season, all games, of course, to be played in the South. Otherwise, it would be difficult for us to arrange the eight games Miami demands with first-class opponents."

Beat Braves in Second

Boston, June 25 (A.P.).—The Braves and Phillies split a double-header here today, the home team winning the first game 5 to 4 and the visitors the second. 9 to 6. The loss of the first game brought the Phillies' losing streak to fine, but they made six runs in the ninth inning of the second game to break the jinx. In the second game the Braves apparently had sewed up the contest by scoring four runs in the eighth.

(PIRST GAME.)

At "Fair" Latonia, where the gee-gees have been performing more or less consistently, I have it the lid is to be taken off this afternoon on MY CAROLINE in the second. The one drawback is that she is named among the also eligibles, hence there may be some difficulty in having a sufficient number scratch out. However, that's their function of the second game the Braves apparently had sewed up the contest by scoring four runs in the eighth.

Yea bo, inasmuch as this is "melon" time I have gone out of my way to dig down deep into the old pickle vat.

Honestly, fellows, I believe I have not less than three old-fashioned sleepers for you today. The first of these goes in the sixth out at Washington Park. It is MEANDER, which won down at Jamaica and was shipped on here to mop up a bale of Uncle Sam's negotiable grass. Is fit as the proverbial fiddle, hence my best adjuration—woteverinell that is—is "let your conscience be your guide."

LADY BUYER is another Easterner that was shipped on but which finished second in her only start. However, it must be said that she had very bad racing luck in being practically left at the post. I understand she will be on her toes today. Oh yes, the whole world is pulling for COL. C.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THUNDERSTORM from the northwest which assumed the propor-tions of a cloudburst swamped course of the Congressional Coun-Club early yesterday afternoon and noralized the first day's qualifying and of the annual spring invitation golf tournament which opened on that course yesterday. The contestants who were fortunate enough to be scheduled for the forenoon rounds were lucky inasmuch as they played a course which offered every facility for low scoring. In the afternoon, however, conditions were lamentably different. ring. In the afternoon, however, ditions were lamentably different for fairways and greens were flooded many of the players being compelled to pitch into water-filled cups with their niblicks as putters were worse than useless. It is no wonder, there-fore, that the list of entrants who an-nounced "no cards" was phenomenally

Only three of the contestants were able to break 80. Lindsay Stott, Beaver Dam, had a 76 and his fellow club member, M. F. McCarthy, had 77. They played in the early part of the day, however, and their score was not as remarkable as the 76 card turned in by Miller B. Stevinson, the District

Storm Overtakes Stevinson On Eighth Tee.

The storm overtook Stevinson at the eighth tee and from that point until after he passed the twelfth green he played under conditions which would have wrecked the score of an ordinary player. He was out in 37, with birdies on the first and fourth holes, but with three putts on the eighth green, where there was water enough to float a battleship, and came home in 39, olte putts which were missed owing to the soggy suface of the greens. The cards of the three leaders were:

Special to The Washington Post. BALTIMORE, Md., June 25.—Rain this afternoon again interfered with the program in the women's State open tennis championship tourna-ment at the Baltimore Country Club. As a result, the doubles are a full day sehind schedule while the singles pro-

Nothing extraordinary developed in the singles tests held today. The seed-ed players all advanced without great en players all advanced without great difficulty, although some observers were surprised by the effectiveness dis-played by a Washington girl, Miss Frances Walker, against the third rank-ing player in the tourney, Mrs. Charles H. Boehm.

Miss Walker wasn't able to force the match to an extra set, but she did succeed in descing the second set before losing by 8 to 6. Mrs. Boehm took the first set by 6 to 3.

The Washington player literally chopped holes into the game of the hardstroking Baltimore left-handed star during the second set. Miss Walker insisted on trying for everything, although she did it in a cool, unburside feshion which bespoke a unhurried fashion, which bespoke a fine competitive spirit. At one period Mrs. Boehm was netting and driving out at an astonishing rate as she atempted to return the exasperating thops with her accustomed pace.

Matches in which Washingtonians figured today follow:

FIRST ROUND — UPPER HALF — Mrs. Charles H. Boehm (Baltimore), defeated Miss Frances Walker (Washington), 6—3. B-6.

PRELIMINARY ROUND — Upper haif — Miss Frances Walker (Washington), defeated Miss Mary Clare Gottman (Baltimore), 6—1. Miss Eleanora Cooper (Baltimore), defeated Miss Louise Omwake (Washington), 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; Miss Josephine Dunham (Washington), defeated Miss Val Penrose (Baltimore), 6—2, 6—0; Miss Marion King (Washington), defeated Miss Lillian Jelenko (Baltimore), 6—2, 8—6.

Preliminary round — Lower half — Miss Margaret Graham (Washington), defeated Mrs. Dawson Tyson (Baltimore), 8—10, 1—5, 7—4. FIRST ROUND—LOWER BALF—Mrs. W. V. Winchester (Baltimore), defeated Miss Betty Pyle (Washington), 6-4, 4-6, 6-4; Mrs. Ruth Martinez (Washington), defeated Miss Reba Clarkson (Baltimore), 6-1, 6-4.

MISS WALKER Leaders Clash in 3 Classes Of Capital City Loop Sunday

> Unlimited Shake-Up Due as Four Contenders Battle: Undefeated Senior and Junior Nines Meet; Legion Rivals Play.

THE leadership of three sections of the Capital City League will hang in the balance Sunday. A general shake-up is due in the unlimited title race as the Brentwood Hawks meet the undefeated Miller Astecs and the battling Authmen ricet the veteran St. Joseph's A. C. club on the Plaza. The Try-Me Aces will meet the Montrose A. C. Nine in what looms at present as the deciding same of the senior section title scrap. The Lionel and Vic Sport Shop undefeated junior teams are to clash, with the junior section lead and probably the championship at stake. ably the championship at stake.

Both the Brentwood Hawks and St.
Joes must win Sunday to remain in the unlimited title race. The Aztecs have unlimited title race. The Astecs have to win to keep at the top of the heap and the Authmen can not afford to take a second defeat at this time. If the Hawks stop the Astecs and the National Press Building Cards can continue their winning stride at the expense of the Tramonta the Cards will move into ng stride at the expense of the Tremonts, the Cards will move into first place.

At present the Montrose and Try-Me Ace Teams are undefeated and tied for the senior section leadership. The victim of Sunday's clash on East Ellipse diamond will be shoved into second place with the Roamers right on their Vice and Lionel Nines In "Crucial" Game.

The Vic Sport Shop-Lionel engage ment has all the markings of a championship struggle. In six games, eac of these teams has been returned the victor. Both possess capable pitchen and their run scoring records are worthy of note. The Vicmen have crossed the plate 92 times in six games and the Lionels have 64 runs to their credit.

Managers of the junior section teams will decide tonight at a meeting in the municipal playground office in the District Building at 8 o'clock whether a second series will be played, the winner of each series to meet in a final championship series. There is little doubt that the winner of Sunday's Victional contest will cop the junior title. Two of the American Legion series games carded for Sunday will have an important bearing on the championship aspirations of several teams. The Delano and Eight and Forty Teams, victorious in their first games last week, are to clash on the Plaza, and George Washington Post Team will make its first appearance in the new series against the Victory Post Team.

HESS A. C. ACTIVE.

Hess A. C. angages the Eastern All Stars tomorrow on the Pairlawn diamond at 5 o'clock. Saturday the Chevy Chase Grays will be met on the latter's diamond at 3:30 o'clock. The Hess want other week-day games. Phone Jim Horn at Lincoln 1815.

Take of September and be available for Saturday the Chevy Chase Grays will be met on the Municipal Playground Department office in the District Building. W. W. Washington Team, has not forgotten the S-to-0 drubbing his lads took from Victory Post in their earlier engagement. Victory took its first defeat last week when Lincoln Post pulled a startling surprise triumph. Another loss in the attendance.

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE GAMES FOR THIS WEEK

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

Interest in the local soccer situation has been keyed to an unprecedented point by recent developments, and as a result the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association elections tomorrow night in room 2. District Building, usually a cut-and-dried affair, have assumed the proportions of a warm contest.

Dissension and bickering have dominated most of the meetings of the ruling body of the kicking game here during the last nine months, and, as a natural consequence, party lines have been drawn tightly and several of the present office holders are as pected to be defeated.

It has been claimed that the association has acted in a manner contrary to its constitution in being composed of representatives of each league and three delegates-at-large as it is at present, the critics contending that every team under the jurisdiction of the association is entitled to representation at the meeting and a voice in the naming of the officers.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY.

In the third chapter the Bradys In the third chapter the Bradys were discharged from any further connection with the treasure hunt, but later events disclose that the disctor is bound by an agreement whereby he is entitled to half of the treasure. Old King Brady puls up the money and they outfit a yacht and start out down the coast of California, unknown to Willy Whigmore. They offer a certain amount of treasure to the crew.

THE SEARCH POR THE LOST PRISCO LINER. CHAPTER IV.

"About twenty miles I should say," eplied the captain.
"You have been here before?"
"I have fished up and down the beast, but I never landed along here."
"Now, what are the depths inside the mands known as the Five Sisters."
This question brought out a long discussion as to the depths and the mature of the bottom along the coast. Capt. Harding was not hopeful; the lepth of water inside the bay was not shown on the chart; there were marks showing shoal water outside the stands, that was all.
"There isn't one chance in a thou-

"Very likely. Dutton did not say that she went down inside the bay?" "You didn't follow me, Capt. Harding What he said was that she went down between the Sisters and the mainland. We are to take our bearings on the big white rock."

that they were liable to sight the Five Sisters within a half hour's time. Old King Brady was the first on deck and the captain called to him at once. "There they are, Mr. Brady!" he excisioned. "You see the five black rocks just projecting above the water?"

"They could be nothing else."

"When we get beyond the range of that point we ought to see the Bay of San Lopez and the white rock. That will decide the question, of course."

Harry and the doctor now joined them. Soon they were beyond the range of the point and a shallow indentation in the shore was revealed. It could accreely be called a bay. Here the base of the mountains lay back about a mile from the beach, while rising above the surface of this beach, about midway between the water's edge and the foot of the cliffs was a giant boulder as white as the driven snow.

"This is surely the place!" cried the adoctor. "Brady, it is wonderful! Now, captain, we come to anchor within the Sisters, and the first thing is to heave the lead."

"Patience, gentlemen," replied the risterical stream.

They all waited with breathless im-

"There isn't a sign of life here. Not even a Digger Indian could pick up a living on this coast."

"It looks so." agreed the captain.
"But fishing boats are liable to come here any time."

"We must be on guard night and "We must be on guard night and day," said Old King Brady.
Capt. Harding kept on his course until they were midway between the rocks and the shore, and then the yacht came to a standstill. The critical moment had come. The order to drop anchor was given. Eagerly they watched the cable as it paid out.

"Thirty feet, sir!" announced one of "Thirty feet, air!" announced one of the sallors.

Old King Brady looked at Dr. Stoppinham in triumph.

"It's immense," said the doctor, "but it must be deeper than that elsewhere."

"We'll make soundings on all sides of us," said the captain. This meant another hour's work, and in the meantime the sun went down. As the twilight is of short duration here, the captain hurriedly brought his work to a close and returned on board the Emerald.

"We are right in it," he announced.
"The greatest depth I can find is 60 feet. We seem to have struck the shallowest place to anchor. We sailors consider that a sign of good luck."
That ended the day's work, and there to be done until daywas nothing more to be done until day-light.

The next morning the Bradys were astir at 5 o'clock and started off with the divers in the boat. They descended four times, but no trace of a wreck could be found. The result was the same everywhere they tried. They tried all day with no success. The men were all discouraged. After they had talked themselves out, Old King Brady came in with this remark:

"These's one thing about this country to be considered, and that is the earthquakes."

"Well, there are enough of them," asid the captain.
"They are nearly always followed by a tidal wave, are they not?" asked the detective. "What is the usual effect of a tidal wave on the sand?" Without a tidal wave on the sand? Without giving any one a chance to answer, he said: "It causes a shifting of sand and these big sand hills are formed that way. I would suggest that we take a look on ahore, at least covering the sand hills between us and the big white rock. Who knows but what the Belle of Botton may have been thrown forward from her days better the sand heart ward from her days were the sand here. of Botton may have been thrown for-ward from her first position and been covered up in the sand?"

They all decided that there was still a chance and that the treasure might be found.

What the Earthquake Revealed.

Morning dawned on a sea as smooth as glass, but Capt. Harding was in a state of excitement. "The barometer has taken a big drop," he told Harry "There is a storm coming."

In spite of the storm warnings, the men went ashore and began to take their bearings. As they advanced a great change began to take place; the sky became a greenish hue, and whitecaps appeared on the open sea. The captain on board the yacht was hauling up the anchor to make into a more sheltered inlet. In less time than it takes to tell all was as black as the blackest night. Suddenly the earth seemed to rise under their feet. They fell sprawling and before they could rise came a second shock. It was an earthquake. Then an awful roar came. As usual, the tidal wave was following the quake.

As usual, the tidal wave was following the quake.

It was growing lighter now. The ocean had retreated, leaving the bottom exposed almost out to the islands. The yacht was stranded between two of the rocks, lying over on her side. Then all in an instant the waters began to return. It was a huge wave, rising higher and higher until it towered over them like a mighty wall. From their place on the sand hill they were safe from the wave. The yacht was riding on the wave and the next they saw of it it was riding down the coast at a terrific speed.

"If she is lost, then so are we," said the doctor gloomily. "Nothing but starvation awaits us here."

"You forget the OX; she is bound to come," said Old King Brady.

"Did you ever see anything like this before, governor?" asked Harry.

"Yes, on an island off the coast of South America, many years ago. Now, gentlemen. we may expect discoveries. Prepare to be surprised."

"I see it!" cried Harry. "I know to what you refer."

"Your eyes are sharp. Look, doctor! Don't you see that black thing sticking up out of the sand pretty well down toward the water's edge?"

"Well, now that you call my attention to it," replied the doctor. "It looks like the amokestack of a steamer,"

The sand had been cut away in many places, forming deen rullies. It was steamer."

The sand had been cut away in many places, forming deep gullies. It was from one of these that the black object projected. There was no mistaking its character. It was the big smokestack of an old-style steamer. The deck was now almost entirely laid bare and as the men approached they could read upon the wheel-house, in faded letters, "Belle of Bolton."

Thanks to the earthquake, the search for the lost liner had been crowned with success, whereas without it the Bradys might have searched in vain for years.

and no word of its decision was given-out until yesterday, when some mem-bers of the committee revealed what had taken place. The meeting was called by Chairman Norbeck at the request of Sanators King (Democrat). Utah, author of the resolution; Olass, of Virginia, and Fletcher, also Demo-crats.

of Virginia, and Fletcher, also Democrats.

A motion by Senator Fletcher to report the resolution favorably to the Senate was rejected. Prior to this a motion by Senator Edge (Republican), New Jersey, to have a subcommittee investigate the feasibility of considering the resolution by the full committee had been turned down, 4 to 3. The suggestion to have the committee act upon the resolution after the special session reconvenes was adopted unanimously.

Law Commission Given Negro Plea

0.44 Investigating Body Asked to Inquire Into Lynching. Disenfranchisement.

The Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement yesterday was requested to probe alleged injustices to the negro in a brief citing disfranchisement, lynching and peonage sent to George W. Wickersham, head of the commission, by the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, through James Weldon Johnson, executive secretary.

tive secretary.

The brief stated that "lynching constitutes the quintessential form of lavbreaking and brutal disregard for human life and constitutional guaranties in the United States."

The association requested representation at public hearings to be conducted by the commission and permission to submit additional evidence beyond that of the brief concerning violations.

yond that of the brief concerning viz-lation of the negro's guarantied rights. Accompanying the brief were docu-ments aiming to set forth the ffect of crimes against the negro in communi-ties where they are committed.

District to Get Rudolph Portrait on His Birthday

Cuno H. Rudolph, former District Commissioner, will celebrate his birth-day anniversary today. He will be 69 years old.

In celebration of the event, his wife Double During Year $29,000 Brought to Virginia

In celebration of the event, his wife will present to the District government an oil painting of the former commissioner. The presentation ceremony will be held in the board room of the District Building. Edward P. Celladay will make the presentation address, and the present Board of Commissioners will accept. Due to the tremendous demand for the new Studebaker we have traded a number of high type used cars, most of them current mode's and standard makes. They are thoroughly reconditioned.

The Studebakers are CERTIFIED and backed by our nationally

OUR PLEDGE

Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

All STUDEBAKER automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

Bevery purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money only days as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

Planes to Be Safe When Field Always Is Within Gliding Distnace, Is Assertion.

Pleas for all civic organizations, inlividuals and other groups to back ny and all plans for additional airts and for improved facilities at the rports now in existence were made to the Exchange Club of Washington last night by a distinguished gathering of men and women of the air, headed y David Ingalis, Assistant Secretary of he Navy for Aviation, and Marjorie tingon, ploneer among women filers. The occasion was the official installa-The occasion was the official installa-tion of the Washington Exchange Club as a member of the national organiza-tism of that name. The affair, held at the Congressional Country Club, was attended by nearly 200 members of the dub, their wives, friends and guests.

J. P. Muller, vice president of the Na-tional Exchange Club, presented to the local club, of which Lieut. Walter Hin-ter which of the United States Naw's in pilot of the United States Navy's insoceanic seaplane NC-4, is presint, the charter which enrolled the tal group in the national club.

Muller compared the Exchange Club to a tree which takes root from the great American public, its trunk the national organization; its boughs the State groups, its branches the individual clubs, its twigs the members of each club and its leaves the words of wisdom which are spoken at the meetings. Lieut. Hinton responded to the presentation speech, accepting the charter on behalf of the local club and introducing Lieut. Col. H. L. Landers, U. S. A., vice president of the Washington Club, who acted as toastmaster.

Col. Muller called upon Secretary Ingalis. Commander John H. Towers, U. S. N., organizer of the first transatiantic flight of the Navy; Maj. T. dawitt Milling, U. S. A., ploneer Army pilot; Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the woman's air record; Miss Marjorie Etinson, of the early women filers; P. G. B. Public Backing Desired.

Public backing and interest, with airports the chief necessity at the present moment, were urged by Maj. Miling, who said that in Germany, where actual flying has been curtailed by the peace treaty and lack of funds, the through the use of gliders.

A touch of personal experience, showing the need for airports, was given when Elinor Smith rose to state that a recent "crack-up" during a fog iff which her plane was wrecked, could never have occurred had there been adequate facilities for landing in the vicinity in which she had been flying. Mr. Morriss offered a little humor by following Miss Smith with the statement that planes of his line were always over a landing field because his company used only seaplane types and kept over the Atlantic Ocean on all its routes.

Following the discussion of aviation, the toastmaster called upon Walter W. Hubbard, editor of American Aviator and former president of the National Exchange Club, C. H. Schaible, president of the New York Exchange Club and A. M. Sullivan, secretary of that
